Something to Bite on

This concise manual offers best practice guidance on dental treatment of pediatric patients with special health care needs (CSHCN). The straightforward approaches described will enable clinicians to deliver high-quality, patient-centered care to children with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Readers will find up-to-date information on case-based treatment planning, alternative caries management strategies, the use of behavioral and pharmacological interventions to facilitate delivery of quality treatment, and a team approach to care. Practical clinical tips are provided on how to achieve and maintain oral health, including good oral hygiene and nutrition. A systematic framework for patient assessment and interaction with medical colleagues will assist readers in understanding when dental protocols must be altered. Other important topics include techniques for effective communication with CSHCN, behavioral strategies to improve treatment acceptance, the role of occupational therapy techniques, the sensory adapted dental environment, and the use protective stabilization.  Caring for the Disabled Child's Dental Health

 There are many varied views on what the alternatives to hospital care should be for mentally handicapped children who need long term resi- dental care. Ideally, as for all children, we would wish that it was possible for them to be brought up in their own homes and that pa- rents could be provided with the range of services that would enable them both to cope with the additional problems that a handicap pre- sents and to feel assured that their child was being developed to his full potential.

 Special and medically compromised patients present a unique population that challenges the dentist's skills and knowledge. The handicapped patients differ from normal patients with regard to professional relationship between patient and the dentist. Therefore with adequate training and understanding of the various medical complications and handicapping conditions and with adequate alteration in the dentist's treatment protocol these patients can be managed well. We in paediatric dentistry have been given a unique opportunity to serve these children by virtue of the families who seek our care. If you still haven't received the opportunity, don't miss your next chance!!!
