How to Rule the World is about Baxter, a documentary maker past his prime. Each chapter moves on a month, as Baxter and his cameraman Semtex try (and frequently fail) to make great television. The writing is good - it's cynical and satirical, but the narrative is disjointed and Baxter is much given to inner monologues and musings. This means it never really becomes a cohesive story. I enjoyed ...

How to Rule the World is narrated by Baxter, a film-maker whose career -- and industry -- has seen better days. In a time when capturing current events for television (and, of course, the internet) can be -- and is -- done by anyone with a cell phone, the 'Vizz', as he calls the industry, has become a much harder scramble. It doesn't help that a while back he foolishly put up his own money to ...
